Decentralised Power

What is it? Who holds power and how it's wielded is changing. Technology has changed the balance and enabled previously disempowered groups to act and challenge the status quo. The institutions that traditionally shaped society (have seen their trust and influence eroded.

Why Should I care? Older movements and communities had to front-load their organising capacity, align with prevailing power-brokers, and scale within the existing structures and systems. New decentralised models can reach wider audiences, scale quicker, and build movements without having much existing organisational capacity.

Empowering the marginalised

Challenge the status quo

Mobilise the power of community

So what?
How can you use co-leadership to create a platform for marginalised voices, and how can you look to the intersections to discover these voices?
Experiment with new models for funding, fundraising discovery – DeFi, open access and the power of the crowd

GOOD FUTURES
FROM GOOD INNOVATION